PAPER PLANES 2020

13TH, 14TH & 15TH
FEBRUARY, 2020.

About NMIMS

Narsee Monjee Institute for Management Studies is a pioneer in the field of higher education across India. With a legacy of over 38 years, NMIMS is one of the top-10 Business schools in India, with numerous schools established across disciplines and ways of thinking.

Jyoti Dalal School of Liberal Arts is one such effort to respond to the unmet educational needs of society, to create generations of creative thinkers through a liberal education. The school engenders active, productive and ethical citizenship, promoting creative solutions at the heart of the problem solving. This effort, combining creativity and social responsibility, is what we aim to portray through our inter-collegiate festival- Paper Planes 2020.

About PAPER PLANES

Paper Planes Fest is a three day cultural event that aims to celebrate, commemorate and express the diverse and holistic ideologies of Liberal Arts. This year, as we commence the second edition of the fest, our aim is to deal with problems that our society is currently facing; highlighting the need for inclusivity and diversity in everyday life. The need for tolerance and accepting difference; through our fest we aim to highlight the gap in our education system that prevents us from liberating the barriers in our minds today. Let's liberate ourselves from the boxes we've been placed in.

Our events mirror these ideologies that we hold so close to our hearts. With diverse events revolving around fiction, games and performances to imagination and artistry, Paper Planes truly signifies liberation and euphoria. Who says academia can't be combined with performing arts? Who says social issues are unfixable, who says learning can't be fun?

An amalgamation of ideas, we promise to be a fest like never before. This effort of the students of Liberal Arts will bring in a hint of acceptance, add a touch of understanding to create a larger change in how we have so far progressed as students and as a society. Let's liberate our minds, let's create the revolution, let's educate ourselves to be the change we want to see in the world today.

Seven Shades of Serenade

What's more beautiful than poetry itself? It's the joy of performing it. Paper planes 2020 brings to you the Valentine's Day Special. We, here at the School of Liberal Arts, believe that everyone has a unique interpretation and expression of love. We take as gospel the acceptance of all identities and liberation of love. So here's your chance to associate a color from the rainbow with the form of love that makes you, you.

This event requires the participant to write a poem on what their idea of love is. They are required to relate that with the color of the rainbow they get.

Rules and Regulations

- 1) Participants will be given one color out of the seven shades of the rainbow on the day of the event.
- 2) The first round will have written poetry, including elimination on the basis of same.
- 3) The second round will have the remaining participants performing their poetry.
- 4) Three winners will be decided on the basis of the same.
- 5) This event prohibits foul language and use of phones.
- 6) Time period: One hour.
- 7) Word limit: 300 words.

Find your way

Having trouble finding your way through life? Not to worry! Try your luck here at Paper Planes 2020 with 'Find Your Way!' A destined path lies for you to reach the end of your journey. But there's a catch, you don't know the path!

Each round will have 2 teams on either side of a 100 squares grid. Each team will have a designated path through the squares, to ultimately find your way out of the maze. Only the referee will be aware of the way out and will inform you when you are going right or wrong. Only one individual per team can go in one turn. If he/she steps on the wrong square then the next team member comes in. This does not mean disqualification, every member who has to step back will get their chance in rotation. The participants need to remember the path his/her team members who went before him/her took. The team which finds their way out in the least amount of time, wins! Put your team-work, memory and patience to test, in this nail-biting game, not worrying about the road not taken.

Rules and Regulations

- 1) The teams are expected to wear t-shirts of the same colour.
- 2) The event is open to Non-Contingent Participants as well.
- 3) The ground rules of the game will be explained in detail on the day of the event.
- 4) Not showing up on time will result in deduction of points or even disqualification.

Lingorcha

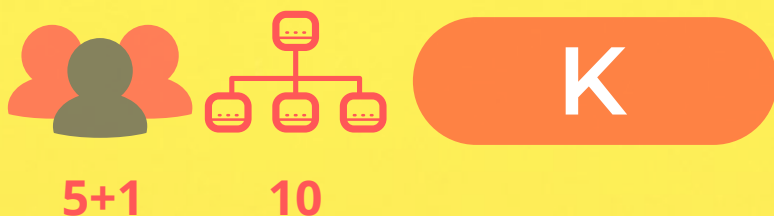

Ever built something that someone else tries to break down? Take up the challenge to break and rebuild your 7 storeyed (stone) building while your opponent tries to eliminate your players, in 'Lingorcha'. In Paper Planes 2020 we want to bring back games which are unique to our country, aiming to bring them back into the world with the same enthusiasm that we played them with when we were kids. So come be a part of this initiative which is more than just an event in

Mind Open- Eyes Closed

“Looking into someones eyes changes the entire conversation.”

When we close our eyes, we forget in the moment the things that make us vulnerable. We try to overcome the fears that pull us back, the awkwardness that prevents us from pushing through, any sort of obstacle that prevents us from moving forward. ‘Mind open, eyes closed’ is an initiative to help one overcome his deepest fears, have meaningful conversations and speak his mind without barriers of judgement.

BASIC IDEA: Two people will be blind folded and asked to talk about their deepest fears and vulnerabilities with the aim to let their thoughts out and get conversation flowing.

Rules and Regulations:

- 1) There will be no podiums for this event.
- 2) Registrations will be on a first come first serve basis.

Talk Dirty

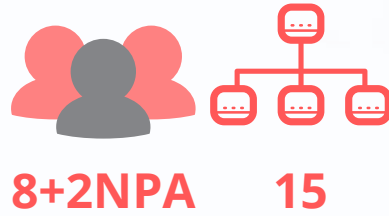

Are you enraged by the current political scenario and looking for the perfect place to channel this rage? This is a platform for you to voice your opinions freely and be heard. Student Politics Panel Discussion

"Children are our future" is a quote constantly thrown at newer generations, but provides the stark truth that students, especially in the current political environment, play an essential role. In light of the recent attacks on students and educational institutions, it is important to discuss the role of students in politics more than ever before. Going hand in hand with Thinking Critically, this session hopes not to sway, but to educate and enlighten.

Prevention of Sexual Harassment and Other Grievances Committee- POSHAG

The Prevention of Sexual Harassment and Other Grievances Committee (POSHAG) proposes the following guidelines to enable the festival to function as a “safe space.”

1. The POSHAG committee will consist of a minimum of five representatives from the student body of which 1/3rd of the quorum must be female. The festival will function in accordance to the University manual on Prevention of Sexual Harassment, available for reference online as well as with the POSHAG committee.
2. It is to be noted that the definitions of key terms (included but not limited to harassment, misconduct, discrimination) is to be derived from the framework of the University Manual on Prevention of Sexual Harassment..
3. The hosts will ensure non-discrimination in the working of the festival and will attempt to establish an egalitarian work atmosphere.
4. The hosts will employ scrutiny in collaborations with other persons in any capacity (including but not limited to individuals, organizations, brands, media houses) attempting to ensure the nature of the festival as a safe space.

5. The host shall also ensure appropriate use of disclaimers and trigger warnings in the event that content (including but not limited to audio, visuals, panel discussions, presentations) displayed or discussed is of a mature or “provoking” nature.

6. The Prevention of Sexual Harassment and Other Grievances Committee will function with faculty intervention in case of any “in-house” grievances relating to misconduct or the violation of the “safe space”. The victim or the accused retains rights to escalate the situation to the University Grievance Cell through the course of POSHAG proceedings.

7. The POSHAG committee, in the case of the need of disciplinary action arising, will rely on the University mandate and will facilitate escalation of the matter to the University

8. Qua the guests, the hosts will share the guidelines adopted by the festival through the online presence as well as in-person through the Contingent Leaders Meet

9. The email address of the POSHAG committee will be made available to guests to allow for a platform to express grievances, including but not limited to accounts of misconduct, harassment or feedback.

10. The POSHAG committee will accelerate these grievances to JDSOLA Dean's Office and appropriate University bodies for prompt intervention.

11. The festival will not look upon favourably in instances of misconduct on the part of guests towards hosts or other guests, and such actions may lead to the debarment of the "guest" institution from future participation in the festival.

12. The hosts ensure their commitment to cultivating a healthy, safe space for the guests and would request their cooperation in fostering the same. The POSHAG committee will function as a bridge between the two and facilitate communication.

13. The Prevention of Sexual Harassment and Other Grievances Committee that sets forth its guidelines to encourage the growth of the festival of Jyoti Dalal School of Liberal Arts in accordance with the University goal of functioning as a centre of "academic freedom and creative advancement".
